A clear and well-documented $\LaTeX$ document is presented as an article formatted for publication by ACM in a conference proceeding or journal publication. Based on the "acmart" document class, this article presents and explains many of the common variations, as well as many of the formatting elements an author may use in the preparation of the documentation of their work.

CCS Concepts: • Computer systems organization → Embedded systems; Redundancy; Robotics; • Networks → Network reliability.

Additional Key Words and Phrases: datasets, neural networks, gaze detection, text tagging

1 INTRODUCTION

ACM's consolidated article template, introduced in 2017, provides a consistent $\LaTeX$ style for use across ACM publication and incorporates accessibility and metadata-extraction functionality necessary for future Digital Library endeavor. Numerous ACM and SIG-specific $\LaTeX$ templates have been examined, and their unique features incorporated into this single new template.

If you are new to publishing with ACM, this document is a valuable guide to the process of preparing your work for publication. If you have published with ACM before, this document provides insight and instruction into more recent changes to the article template.

The "acmart" document class can be used to prepare articles for any ACM publication — conference or journal, and for any stage of publication, from review to final "camera-ready" copy, to the author's own version, with very few changes to the source.
